

COMMENTARY

In this first issue of 2008, it is appropriate to recognize those organizations and individuals who through diverse ways have supported the journal in its quest to be one of the leading health journals in the developing world. The journal wishes to put on record the support of the African Health Journals Partnership (AHJP) project. The AHJP project is funded by the National Institutes of Health, USA (through the National Library of Medicine and the Forgy International Centre) and facilitated by the Council of Science Editors. The journal's participation in this project has resulted in benefits in three areas so far:

- The journal is partnered with the Lancet making it possible to get editorial and technical assistance from this prestigious medical journal.
- The project also facilitated the process of online submission of manuscripts with assistance from ScholarOne Inc, USA using Manuscript Central™.
- The preparation of published articles for uploading to PubMed Central is done by SPi Publishing, USA.

The journal has also benefited from technical support from Mr. Dzedzom de souza of the Noguchi Memorial Institute for Medical Research and Mr. David Indome of Practical Automations Ltd in preparing published articles for the Ghana Medical Journal's web site.

The Ghana Medical Journal expresses its appreciation to all those who in diverse ways made it possible for the production of its issues in 2007. The Journal particularly recognizes the contribution of its reviewers whose inputs augment the quality of the manuscripts we receive for publication.

The journal remains grateful to the publisher, The Ghana Medical Association, for its continued support to the Editorial Committee and editorial policies.

The Ghana Medical Journal has, with effect from March 2008, introduced online submission and processing of manuscripts.
